Grow your skills. Enhance your care.

Learn new techniques to respond to changed behaviours in people living with dementia.

Many people living with dementia are struggling to adjust to COVID-19 changes. This places more pressure on aged care workers.

To show our support, the Centre for Dementia Learning is offering free online education to the aged care industry.

Our courses are engaging and easy to complete. In just two hours, team members will build skills and techniques to respond to changed behaviours.

By signing onto our mailing list you will get free access to What is Dementia? and A problem solving approach to behaviours – free of charge until 30 June 2020.

Share this link with your HR manager or team leader. Team members can enrol at dementialearning.org.au/freecourse
